The Love, Indus Story

"My family secret can be your skin care secret weapon"

Surbhee Grover is the Founder of Love, Indus an opulent skincare brand that combines rare, regional riches from the Indian subcontinent with New York's transformative tech. She started her career in personal care in India with industry leaders such as L'Oréal and Marico Industries before moving to New York and working with the global consulting firm Booz Allen, Hamilton (Booz & Co.) where she advised leading luxury and consumer companies across Asia, North America and Europe on growth and innovation — all of which is a tremendous source of learning in her entrepreneurial journey. An avid traveler, explorer, and rainbow chaser, she likes to capture moments and craft stories.
